DALY, Olga Daly

(Abstracted from <http://obits.syracuse.com/obituaries/syracuse/obituary.aspx?page=lifestory&pid=167818565>)

Olga Daly, age 89, passed from this life on October 17, 2013. My dear mother, known to all as "Olly", and "My Lady" to my dad, was born on August 4, 1924 in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada. She later moved to Meaford, Ontario where she owned a Beauty Salon with the support of her generous mother. Olly captured the heart of Charles (Charlie) Daly one night at a Dancehall in Buffalo, NY. She was the life of the party with beauty and wit and soon became the love of his life. They married in 1948, lived in Buffalo and later moved to the Syracuse area where she and Charlie lovingly raised two daughters. When the girls were older, Olly became a saleswoman, employed by Dey Brothers Department Store. In 1988, she retired with Charlie to the Peridia Golf and Country Club Community in Bradenton, Florida where life was nothing short of fun in the sun. During quieter times, Olly would write in her journal, read and do crossword and scramble puzzles. Over her lifetime, Olly enjoyed playing cards, bowling and golfing, walking, swimming, dancing, lunch with "the girls" and hearing what was new in the lives of her daughters and granddaughters. She loved entertainment, especially musicals, theater and comedy, as well as a good detective mystery, book or show. Her contagious laugh filled the air as she enjoyed shows like, Johnny Carson, Carol Burnett and more recently The Big Bang Theory. Although cooking was not an especially fond routine, her turkey roasted in a brown paper bag and famous cheese ball and cheesecake will live on in family tradition. Recreational travel around the world was a cherished gift Charlie gave Olly and the story of how she had left a journal in Italy and someone actually mailed it home for her was one of many we laughed about. She treasured and took great pride in her daughter's hand crafted gifts. These keepsakes along with family photos surrounded her and gave her great joy. Olly was blessed with a long life, full of joyful opportunities. It was quite a ride mom; how fortunate we were to be on it with you. You will remain, forever in our hearts. Olly was predeceased by her mother, Joanna Gaskey and daughter, Kim Daly. She leaves to cherish her memory, her devoted husband, Charlie of 65 years; daughter, Korie (Jim) Allen; three granddaughters she adored, Jessica, Kristen and Morgan; two brothers, Bill (Barb) Gaskey and Roy (Betty) Gaskey; nieces, Jennifer (David) Dobell, Heather (Kevin) Petty and Nadine (Mike) Vandenboom; and nephews, Bill Jr. and Thomas (Lynley) Gaskey. A memorial service will be held at a later date. Interment in Section 6, Site 2127 at Sarasota National Cemetery.

DANIELSON, Robert E. Danielson

(Abstracted from <http://www.legacy.com/obituaries/heraldtribune/obituary.aspx?n=Robert-E-Danielson&pid=160248249>)

Robert E. Danielson, age 87, of Bradenton since 1978, formerly of West Chicago, IL, died on Sep. 30, 2012 after several years of illness. He is survived by his wife of 49 years Elaine. He is also survived by his sister, Mary Louise, his niece Margaret and his nephew Daniel, all from Iowa. Bob was born January 11, 1925 on a farm near Creston, IA to Emmett and Anna Danielson. Bob's father passed away on Bob's 12th birthday and he and his mother moved into Creston with his grandfather. Bob had a paper route and did errands for the hotel and drug store to help his mother with a little money. His best friend's father had a small greenhouse and Bob worked there part time which was to later be his life's profession - flowers and plant production. Bob graduated from Creston High School in 1943. The day after graduation, he took a bus to Des Moines to join the Navy. He went directly to training camp and then served for over 2 years in the South Pacific. When his enlistment was over in 1946 he went home to Creston and then enrolled in class at Iowa State University. With the help of the G.I. Bill and by working part time in greenhouses in Ames, he graduated in 1951 with a degree in Horticulture. Bob's first job was in Winona, MN where he managed a large greenhouse for 11 years. After that he was requested to come to West Chicago, IL to interview for a job managing a greenhouse and trial grounds for Geo. J. Ball, Inc. The Ball Company even at that time was a well known firm all over the United States for sales of seeds, plants and other supplies for greenhouses and florists. Bob was given the job that day. Mr. Victor Ball then took Bob to meet Elaine Booth because Elaine did the cost accounting for the greenhouse crops. Bob called Elaine two months later and asked for a dinner date. Ten months later, Bob and Elaine were married! They were able to celebrate their 49th anniversary August 2 this year. Bob was a very dedicated employee for Ball. He later worked for another Ball Company named Pan American Plant Co. which was primarily based in Cortez, FL and later Parrish, FL. Bob was a very hands on guy and helped set up standards for the production of Mums and later Kalanchoes and African Violets. These cuttings and plants were shipped to Ball customers all over the United States. By this time Bob was vice-president of production for Pan Am Plant. Bob was considered very much of an expert in plant production and trained many employees in proper procedures and for disease control. Bob traveled extensively for the Ball Co. to visit customers and suppliers. He was always able to solve disease and production problems. He also traveled with Ball salesmen and with Mr. Victor Ball to visit customers and suppliers. He was well known all over the United States and still hears from people that he has worked with and known in the business. Bob was a very active member of Emmanuel United Methodist Church in Bradenton for many years. He was on the Board of Trustees, the Memorial Contributions group, the Prayer and Share group, and the Thursday morning men's work group. He also was well remembered for the beautiful roses he had on the church grounds. Bob is also remembered at the church with his good friend,

Clarence, as the "Master Chefs" for the church turkey dinners and the picnics. Bob was also a member of the American Legion in Bradenton and the National Audubon Society. Bob and Elaine enjoyed helping support several animal and bird groups as well as numerous humanitarian groups including the Salvation Army. Bob and Elaine were able to do a lot of traveling prior to illnesses for both of them. In later years, as is the case with many older people, they traveled with cruises which are an easier way to travel. Rest in peace, my dear wonderful Bob! A Memorial service will be held at Emmanuel United Methodist Church, 5115 Cortez Rd. Bradenton, FL Thursday, October 4, 2012. DEFORÉ, Wilfred DeFour

(Abstracted from <http://www.sun-sentinel.com/news/ny-metro-tuskagee-airman-dead-20181208-story.html>)

Wilfred DeFour, a member of the Tuskegee Airmen — an all-black squadron of World War II pilots that inspired African-Americans across the country — died in his Harlem home Saturday Dec 8, 2018. He was 100. DeFour's home health aide found the centenarian in the bathroom of his Fifth Ave. home at the Riverton Square apartments. The airman's wife died in 2005, neighbors said. The couple had a son and a daughter, but the son had died several years ago. "You would never know he was 100," neighbor Joanne Wells said. "He had a little cane but he walked. He had all his faculties. His mind was as sharp as a whip." Neighbor Naomi Crawford, age 92, moved into the Riverton Square apartments in the 1940s, at around the same time DeFour and his wife did, she remembered. The war hero was modest and never spoke about his time with the Tuskegee Airmen, she said. "He received two plaques on Friday from the senior center." Crawford said. "One for turning 100." DeFour was an aircraft technician for the famed squad, which got its name from the group's training facility in Tuskegee, AL. During World War II, the pilots ran missions over North Africa, Sicily, and Italy. DeFour painted the tails of the aircraft from which the squadron drew its "Red Tails" nickname. Just last month, DeFour was honored as a post office on Macombs Place in Harlem was renamed the Tuskegee Airmen Post Office Building. DeFour worked as a postal employee for more than 30 years after his military service. "We didn't know we were making history at the time," DeFour, said during the renaming ceremony. "We were just doing our job." An autopsy has been slated to determine how he died, although it's believed he died of natural causes, police said. Counting all pilots and support staff — from the mechanics to the cooks — roughly 20,000 men were part of what is considered the "Tuskegee experience." As of 2015, some 600 were still alive, according to the Tuskegee Airmen National History Museum in Detroit.

DEL MONTE, William A. Del Monte

(Abstracted from information sent to Elmer by Megan Smolenyak Smolenyak)

The last survivor of the devastating San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906 has died. William A. "Bill" Del Monte died Monday at a retirement home in Marin County. He was 11 days shy of his 110th birthday. His niece, Janette Barroca of San Francisco, confirmed his death of natural causes. He'd been doing "great for 109 years old," Barroca said. Del Monte was 3 months old when the quake struck — forcing his family into the streets to escape in a horse-drawn buckboard with fire burning on both sides. The family crossed the bay to Alameda County and returned to San Francisco after their home was rebuilt, Barroca said. His father had opened the famous Fior d'Italia on Broadway in 1886, which was destroyed in the quake but reopened in a tent not long after. Del Monte attended San Francisco schools and after graduation worked briefly for his father at the North Beach restaurant. In his teens he was interested in playing the stock market — and he was good at it. By 1929, when he was 23, he was worth $1 million, according to the San Francisco Chronicle. He lost the money, but around the same time he gained a wife: Del Monte and Vera Minetti eloped to Reno in 1925 and were married for more than 55 years before she died in 1991. They never had children. Though his true passion was playing the stocks, he also ran a San Francisco Bay Area theater for years. Del Monte's death leaves a void in the city's history. At 113, Ruth Newman was the oldest remaining survivor of the earthquake before her death last summer. Four years old when the quake struck in the early morning of April 18, 1906, she never attended the city's annual quake commemorations. But Del Monte did over the years. In 2010, he was the only survivor who made it to Lotta's Fountain downtown, riding in the back of the city's big black 1930 Lincoln convertible. More than 1,000 people were killed in the earthquake and fire. According to the U.S. Geological Survey, the quake's magnitude has ranged from 7.7 to 8.3. "The common thread I would draw with all of these survivors is they had a unique, dry, wry sense of humor as anyone would have at being so rudely tossed out of bed at 5:11 in the morning," said commemoration organizer Lee Houskeeper. "But none could compare to Bill. "He had absolutely the sharpest mind of anybody I've ever known. A sharp mind, a sharp sense of humor and he was a complete flirt. My guess is there are a lot of heartbroken nurses out there today."

DEVORE, Helen DeVore

(Abstracted from information sent to Elmer by Randy Seaver, one of her relatives and one of Elmer's genealogy friends)
Helen DeVore, 09/22/1921 ~ 09/09/2014 Chula Vista, CA -- Surrounded by family, Helen DeVore passed peacefully after 92 years of life. She will always be remembered for her soft spoken kindness and absolute devotion to her family. She was born in Santiago, Chile where her father, Charles Huffer, was an astronomer and her mother, Ruth, a missionary. Soon after her birth they moved to Madison, Wisconsin and her father taught astronomy for the university. Her mother died soon after their return to the states and two years later her father married Elizabeth Hart, who was a wonderful mother to Helen. She graduated from Madison West High School and attended the University of Wisconsin. She received her elementary teaching credential in 1944. The following year, Helen was recruited to teach in California. She boarded a train with her best friend visiting sites along the way and ended up in Ontario, California where she taught kindergarten. That fall the school custodian introduced her to Chester DeVore, who had just returned home from the war. They were married in December 1946 and celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary before his death in 2011. It was in 1947 when Chet's own career in education began and they moved to Chula Vista, CA. Helen devoted her life to raising their four children. She was a model of traditional family values and the quintessential homemaker. She was involved with her children's education from practicing spelling words and volunteering with scouts to being in the PTA. She served as Cook School's PTA President in 1966. She chaired the Faculty Wives Club at Southwestern College where Chet served as President/Superintendent. She was also a Charter member of the Chula Vista Presbyterian Church where she served faithfully since 1956 as a Sunday school teacher, Deacon and Elder. Helen was ahead of her time with her nutritional homemade meals, fresh vegetables, and meatless Mondays always ready to be served at 5:30. She baked bread weekly and her roll recipe is still a family holiday favorite. She read cookbooks like novels, grew sprouts and made yogurt in her spotless kitchen, and always had home baked cookies in her freezer. She also was an accomplished knitter making sweaters and afghans with intricate patterns, got great enjoyment from playing the piano from church hymns to Chopin to Scott Joplin, and had a great appreciation for poetry. Helen spent many years researching and documenting her family ancestry and tracing her roots as far back as the Mayflower. Helen's life was happy and fulfilled, but her greatest joy came from being a wife and a mother. She guided her family with love, grace, and gentle strength and her legacy will always be found in the love of the family that she leaves behind. She is survived by her 4 children, twins Janet (Skip) Arnold and John (Sheila) DeVore, son James (Sori) DeVore, daughter Ann (Frank) Pugh, 8 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. She is also survived by her half-brother James Huffer. Services will be held at the Chula Vista Presbyterian Church, 940 Hilltop Drive in Chula Vista on Saturday, September 13, 2014. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the DeVore Memorial Scholarship Fund at Southwestern College, 900 Otay Lakes Road, Chula Vista, CA 91910.

To accommodate his young family, he custom built a home in Andover in 1963, before downsizing to Bradford in 1978, then settling in Venice in 1994. With his father, and later his sons, he owned and operated Michael DiBitetto and Son(s), Inc., Excavating Contractors with sand and stone plants in Lawrence and Andover, MA, from where materials were supplied for use in construction of Interstate Highways 93 and 495, Logan and Lawrence airports, and other local and regional projects of note. DIMATTIA, Ernest A. DiMattia, Jr

(Abstracted from Tom Kemp, one of Elmer's Genealogy friends)

STAMFORD, CT, June 27, 2014 - Ernest A. DiMattia, Jr., the Ferguson Library president who ushered the library into the digital age and during his 38-year tenure oversaw the renovation of the Main Library and all three of its branches, died on Thursday of cancer at the age of 74. Mr. DiMattia, known as Ernie to his legions of friends, was one of the longest serving library directors in Connecticut. Ferguson Library Board of Trustees Chair Michael J. Cacace said, "Ernie was an extraordinary leader of the Ferguson Library. However, the true measure of his loss will be felt throughout the community - because he was one of the unique leaders that make Stamford a wonderful place, sharing his wisdom, guidance, time and energy in so many ways. He was a good, kind and caring man; and the entire community mourns his loss." Mr. DiMattia came to the Ferguson Library in 1976, when library users still thumbed through card catalogs to look for a book, and library music collections were on vinyl. He saw the promise of the Internet early on, and in 1995, the Ferguson became the first public library in Connecticut to provide public Internet access. He was a fierce champion of the Ferguson and libraries in general, and held a series of leadership positions in the American Library Association, the Connecticut Library Association and other library organizations. He most recently served on the board of the Connecticut State Library. Governor Dannell Malloy, who as mayor of Stamford, frequently debated with Mr. DiMattia over the library budget, said, "Ernie was a champion and advocate for libraries in a difficult time for libraries. He was the best, the dearest, smartest ...an incredible human being." In 1979, Mr. DiMattia oversaw the creation of the Friends of the Ferguson Library, the library's volunteer support group which now raises $200,000 annually through its used book shop. That same year, he undertook the expansion and renovation of the Main Library's turn of the century building. A second renovation was completed in 2011. He opened a passport office and a Starbucks (the first public library in the U.S. to do so), which became important sources of revenue for the library. Mayor David Martin said, "Ernie's passion for the Library and helping the thousands of people who visited it was something I always admired. This is a great loss to both his family and to our community." In recent years, Mr. DiMattia became committed to ensuring public library access to ebook technology, chairing the Connecticut Library Association's Ebook Task Force from 2011-2012. He was ever interested in the changing role of libraries, and recognized that to stay relevant they had to reinvent themselves as community spaces and centers of continuing education. "He cared about the future of public libraries," said Sandra Goldstein, President of the Stamford Downtown Special Services District, and a member of the Ferguson Library Board of Trustees. "He cared about the community. He was an extraordinary man, loved by everyone, respected and admired by everyone." DIXON, Alyce Dixon

(Abstracted from internet sources)

The oldest female Veteran, the high-spirited, fun-loving, amazing local celebrity, Alyce Dixon, died peacefully in her sleep on January 29, 2016 at the Washington DC Veterans Affairs Medical Center's Community Living Center. She was 108 years old. She is well-known in the community for her elegant sense of style, her long repertoire of eyebrow-raising jokes and very strong opinions. She credits her long life to sharing and caring. "I always shared what little I have, that's why He let me live so long. I just believe in sharing and giving. If you have a little bit of something and someone else needs it, share," she said. Dixon was born in 1907 in Boston, MA when an American's average life expectancy was only 47 years. She was born Alice Ellis in Boston. At the age of 16, she changed the spelling of her name to Alyce after seeing a picture show starring actress Alyce Mills. She lived life on her own terms from that day forward. She was married for a time, but divorced her husband over an $18 grocery bill. He found out she was sending money home to her family and put her on a strict allowance. This didn't sit well for the independent young woman. "I found myself a job, an apartment and a roommate. I didn't need him or his money," she said. She later joined the military in 1943. She was among one of the first African-American women in the Army. As a member of the Women's Army Corps, she was stationed in England and France where she played an important role in the postal service as part of the 6888th Battalion. After leaving the Army, she served the government for many years at the Census Bureau and in the Pentagon where she served as a purchasing agent, buying everything from pencils to airplanes. She retired from government service in 1973. At the medical center, she was affectionately called the "Queen Bee" and was known for impeccable dress. She never left her room without fixing her makeup and hair. She always wore stylish clothes and jewelry and sported well-manicured nails. She loved to sit in the medical center Atrium and watch the people. She was disappointed in how young women dress today. "I tell everyone to dress nice for yourself and you'll feel better, even if you don't feel good," she said. "Wear your jewelry, fix your hair. No one has to tell you that you look good...do it for yourself." She led a long and full life. She has met presidents, the first lady, members of Congress, high-ranking military officers, celebrities and musicians. She also held media interviews with many local and national outlets. According to medical center director, Brian A. Hawkins, MHA, she will be missed, "...especially the caregivers and Veterans of our Community Living Center. She was one-of-a-kind; a strong-willed, funny, wise, giving and feisty WWII Veteran. Her message touched a lot of people."

DOHERTY, Glen Anthony Doherty

(Abstracted from internet stories - he was one of the four murdered in the attack on the U. S. embassy in Libya)

Glen Doherty, age 42, grew up on Glen Lane in Winchester, graduated from Winchester High School in 1988, and remained close to his Winchester friends throughout his life. Glen Anthony Doherty was the second of three children born to Bernard Doherty, now of Charlestown, and Barbara Doherty, now of Woburn. His older brother is Greg Doherty of Kensington, CA, his younger sister Kate Quigley of Marblehead. The siblings were great lifelong friends. They grew up in Winchester, across the street from a patch of woods where they first fell in love with the outdoors. Ben Doherty, the son of Irish immigrants who kept a chicken farm in Billerica, is a former boxer and Massachusetts boxing commissioner, as well as a successful stockbroker, who raised the children to be athletic, tough, hard-working and family-minded. Barbara Doherty, who opened and for years ran a candy store in Lexington called The Candy Castle, is an extremely warm-hearted and friendly woman who raised her children to be kind to everyone, and who opened her home as a second home for all her children's friends. Glen was very loyal to his friends and family. He kept the same core group of friends since elementary school, and it was their loyalty to each other and fun-loving nature, as well as Barbara's welcoming home, that brought them from being a one-time crew of social misfits to the center of an awful lot of damn fun people of all stripes who remain tight to this day. After high school, Glen attended Embry Riddle aeronautical university in Arizona, where he flew planes, rode a motorcycle and decided that the only thing cooler to do than what he was doing would be to up and leave. His fearlessness took many forms throughout his life, but was always at his core. He became a ski bum at Snowbird, Utah, in the winters, working at restaurants and becoming a phenomenal skier on both regular and telemark skis, as well as a talented cook and after-party expert. In the summers, he was a white water rafting guide down the Colorado River, where his knowledge of the outdoors, his responsibility and his abilities to tell a great tall tale and to get everyone to have fun made multi-day journeys from Moab to Lake Powell experiences of a lifetime for many. He was always a hard worker and extremely responsible, which never managed to drive a wedge between him and the lovable riff-raff who shared his lifestyle. His athleticism also led him to become a triathlete during this period. The many friends he gathered during these years always remained as dear to him as he was to them, and he took every opportunity, usually meaning a few weeks a year, to return to his beloved mountains and friends in Utah.

Hank was born in Highland Park, MI on February 27th, 1948 to parents Louis and Diana Drost. The family moved to Sarasota in 1957. Hank attended and graduated from Sarasota High School in 1966. Shortly after, he was drafted into the army on June 27th, 1968. Hank served in Vietnam, as a door gunner, for 2 years. He was honorably discharged, receiving the National Defense Service Medal; the Vietnam Service Medal with two bronze service stars; the Republic of Vietnam Campaign Medal; Marksman (M-14); Expert (M-16) and Expert (hand grenade) acclamations. Hank was also offered the Purple Heart for wounds he suffered during service, but declined it. After moving back to Sarasota, Hank married his beloved Patsy McDonald in 1975 and had three children, Kelly, Jake, and Katie. After parting ways with Patsy in 1995, the two remained the best of friends until Patsy's passing in April of this year. Hank's love for fishing and boating brought him to the keys in 1996, and kept him there for the remainder of his life. No writing about Hank is complete without mention of his sense of humor and ability to make people laugh. It's what people were drawn to, loved about him, and it's what will mostly be missed about him. With a sharp wit and quick response, Hank could cause the most hysterical laughter out of any person he met. This was his best quality and it had a way of making people feel happy, accepted and loved. This gift was very special and will be remembered forever by his family, friends, and children's friends. DUERK, Alene B. Duerk

(Abstracted from information received from June Spear, 21 August 2018)
Alene B. Duerk, who rose through the ranks of the Navy Nurse Corps to become the U.S. Navy's first female admiral in 1972, died recently at the age of 98. Duerk enlisted in the Navy Nurse Corps in 1943 during the midst of WWII, serving first in naval hospitals and later on a hospital ship treating newly liberated prisoners of war. Over the course of her 40-year-long career, she became the public face of what women could achieve in the Navy, a role that she found daunting at times. "I did feel some pressure at the time," Duerk said in a 2016 interview. "It was a lot to take on because when you are the first women in any high-profile role everyone is watching you." Duerk was first introduced to nursing at home: her father was frequently ill due to his service in WWI so she often saw nurses come to care for him. She once said, "I believe those nurses were my first introduction to nursing." After she graduated from Toledo Hospital School of Nursing in Ohio, there was a huge demand for military nurses since the US had recently entered WWII so she decided to enlist. Among her wartime service, she worked on the USS

Benevolence, a Navy hospital ship. She once recounted, "We pulled into Japan when the peace treaty was signed, and we helped evacuate the P.O.W.s — a very moving experience." Duerk then worked as a Naval reservist at several hospitals, until she was recalled to active duty during the Korean War in 1951 to serve as a nursing instructor. By 1970, she was a captain in charge of the Navy Nurse Corps; two years later, she became the first woman to attain the rank of rear admiral. As an admiral, Duerk frequently made appearances and statements in support of Navy women, fighting for better pay and working conditions. In one public appearance, she presided over the swearing in for nine female recruits on board the USS Constitution, also known as Old Ironsides, in September 1972. "Until recently not even women reporters were allowed on the Constitution during its annual turnaround cruise," the Boston Globe wrote of the event, "but yesterday was women's day." Duerk retired in 1975 but remained an advocate for women in the Navy and for Navy nursing in particular. "I had an amazing career," she observed. "It was a nice distinction to have and to be recognized as the first, but I wanted to make certain that I used that notoriety to do as much positive as I could."

DUERK, Alene Bertha Duerk

Alene B. Duerk, who received her nurse's training at Toledo Hospital, led the Navy nurse corps, and was the first woman rear admiral, died July 21, 2018 at her Lake Mary, FL, home. She was 98. The Defiance native who grew up in the Henry County village of Holgate moved to central Florida in retirement. She was the first woman to achieve flag rank in the Navy. Her death was announced by Naval History and Heritage Command. A cause was not reported. "It took 197 years and a forward-looking Chief of Naval Operations, Elmo Zumwalt, to break with tradition before Alene Duerk became the first woman admiral in the U.S. Navy," Sam Cox, director of Naval History and Heritage Command, said in a statement. "But the credit goes to Duerk. From the crucible of caring for wounded sailors, Marines, and prisoners of war during World War II in the Pacific, she blazed a trail of stellar performance in tough jobs, serving as an inspiration for an ever-increasing number of women officers who have followed her path." In 1972, Admiral Duerk learned of her promotion on the car radio while driving the Ohio Turnpike bound for her mother's place in Holgate. Before the soon-to-be rear admiral arrived, her mother, Emma Zachrich, had been notified by Washington of the honor - and had fielded calls from reporters, photographers, and friends. "Never as a child did I dream of becoming an admiral. All I ever wanted to be was a nurse," then-Captain Duerk said at her mother's house. Toledo Blade reporter Mary Ellen Wolfe wrote: "Captain Duerk waded into the frenzy of activity with the same coolness she showed during World War II when she served in naval hospitals in Portsmouth, VA, and Bethesda, MD, and aboard the hospital ship Benevolence." Holgate paid her honor during its Community Harvest Festival in October, 1972, the first of many recognitions. She received a Governor's Award in 1973 for service reflecting honorably on the state of Ohio. She received an honorary doctorate in 1973 from Bowling Green State University and an honorary doctorate in 1975 from the Medical College of Ohio. "There was a lot of weight on my shoulders," Admiral Duerk said in 2016 to Matt Markey, The Blade's outdoors editor, for an article on the BGSU website. "It was a nice distinction to have, and to be recognized as the first, but I wanted to make certain that I used that notoriety to do as much positive as I could." Alene Bertha Duerk was born on March 29, 1920, in Defiance to Emma and Albert Duerk. Her father, who had health problems related to his service in World War I, became ill enough when Alene was a young girl that nurses came to their house frequently. "I believe those nurses were my first introduction to nursing," Admiral Duerk said in an interview for Registered Nurse to Rear Admiral: A First for Navy Women, a 2003 book about her written by Estelle McDoniel. She was 4 years old when her father died. Her mother later married Herman Zachrich. Admiral Duerk graduated from Holgate High School in 1938. She graduated from the Toledo Hospital School of Nursing in 1941, becoming a registered nurse at the hospital and then the staff nurse at Tiedtke's department store, providing care to its employees. As the United States entered World War II, nurses were suddenly in high demand. She received regular recruiting pitches from the American Red Cross, and she enlisted in the Navy Nurse Corps in 1943. She was assigned to the naval hospital in Portsmouth, VA, then to the one in Bethesda, MD. On the bulletin board there she read a notice that the Navy was seeking nurses for five new hospital ships. In 1945 she boarded the Benevolence, bound for the Marshall Islands and then Japan. There were expectations that the ship would support an Allied invasion of Japan, but while it was en route the atomic bombs were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Instead the ship received newly liberated U.S. prisoners of war. "We pulled into Japan when the peace treaty was signed," Admiral Duerk told the Orlando Sentinel in 1994, "and we helped evacuate the POWs - a very moving experience." In 1946 she was released from active service with the rank of lieutenant junior grade and returned to Ohio, working in several hospitals and earning a bachelor's degree in ward management and teaching, medical and surgical nursing at what is now Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland in 1948. That year she also joined the Naval Reserve, and in 1951, with the Korean War under way, she was recalled to active duty, serving as a nursing instructor at the Naval Hospital Corps School in Portsmouth. Later she had educational and management assignments overseas and in Philadelphia, San Diego, and Washington, among other places. In 1970, by then a captain, she was put in charge of the Navy nurse corps. As she advanced in the chain of command, the Navy tried to make itself more attractive to women and improve opportunities for them. Seeking a woman to promote to the rank of rear admiral, a rank below a full admiral and the equivalent of an Army two-star general, it selected her from about two dozen candidates. She quickly became the public face of what women could achieve in the Navy, a role she found daunting at first. "I did feel some pressure at the time," Admiral Duerk told Mr. Markey in 2016. "Now I was not only supposed to know all about the nurse corps but also all about the U.S. Navy. It was a lot to take on because when you are the first woman in any high-profile role everyone is watching you." In one event that seemed tailored to showcase her status as the Navy's top-ranking woman, in September, 1972, she presided over the swearing in of nine female recruits aboard the USS Constitution, the ship known as Old Ironsides, in Boston Harbor. "Until recently not even women reporters were allowed on the Constitution during its annual turnaround cruise," The Boston Globe reported. "But yesterday was women's day."
