HAAS, Robert Michael Haas

(Abstracted from <http://www.legacy.com/obituaries/heraldtribune/obituary.aspx?n=robert-m-haas-bob&pid=173659161>) Robert Michael "Bob" Haas left us for his home in heaven on December 22, 2014. His wife, Nancy, was at his side. Bob was born May 11, 1949 and touched the lives of so many during his time with us. His laughter could fill a room with joy, and his smile brightened everyone's day. Bob is survived by his wife of 27 years, Nancy, and his two children Christy Garcia (Robb) and Robert (Bob) Haas Jr. (Jenni). He was a proud grandfather to Andi, Anthony, and Rylee Garcia; and Bobby (Robert III), Lilly, Charlie, and Amelia Haas; and great-grandfather to Ayden Garcia. Bob was one of 7 children and loved his brothers and sisters very much: Elena Haas, Ginny Nicioli (Larry), Marty (Sally), Marguerite Loek, Jim (Mary Pat), and Bill (Carmen). Bob was predeceased by his parents, Bill and Ginny (Gay) Haas, and his grandson, Samuel Haas, and several cousins whom he was close to: BJ, Rita, and Bob. Bob served in Vietnam as a member of the U.S. Army. Our Lady brought him home safely, and he returned to work for IBM until he retired in 2012 after 44 years. Bob and Nancy lived in Newtown, CT for over 22 years where Bob was active in St. Rose of Lima Catholic Church as past president of the Men's Club, Team Leader for the Saturday Ushers, and available to help wherever he was needed. Bob lived his faith in all he did. At St. Rose he joined the Knights of Columbus which began his unending love and passion for the Knights and what they stand for. Bob loved Florida and relocated there in 2009 where Bob transferred to the local Knights of Columbus Council. When asked what role he wished to take, he said 'give me the worst position that no one else wants'. He proudly served his fellow Knights in several roles. Bob helped to reinstate the Knights Council at St. Thomas More, and became Grand Knight in 2013. He was very proud of his Council members when they won several awards in 2014 including the Triple Star Award. Bob was a great leader and role model, and as a Brother Knight, worked tirelessly to protect the unborn and to help those in need. He received his Fourth Degree in the Knights in 2011, and quickly became a member of the Color Corps, where he participated in many events, even through his illness, because he believed in their mission. Bob always took delight in the fact that he introduced his wife to Florida, and to cruise vacations, which he loved.

He was very close to his brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews, and his many cousins, always looking forward to gatherings filled with fun and laughter. He loved his children and grandchildren very much, and was especially proud to attend the baptism of his great-grandson this past May. Bob's sense of humor endeared him to so many. His nurses and doctors at Moffitt Cancer Center loved him, and he loved to get his Brother Knights attention by singing a few lyrics when tuning up the microphone. His sense of humor stayed with him until the end. Bob lived his life always trying to do the right thing - treat people with respect and do the right thing even though it may be the hardest choice. That is the legacy he leaves his children and grandchildren. Bob's presence among us will be greatly missed, but he will always be there to support us from his place in heaven. A mass of Christian burial will be December 31, at St. Thomas More Catholic Church, Sarasota. In lieu of flowers please send donations to: Knights of Columbus Charities (United in Charity or Culture of Life Fund), One Columbus Plaza, PO Box 1966, New Haven, CT 06509-1966. HAGEN, Earle H. Hagen

(Abstracted from the Loveland, CO Daily Reporter-Herald, Wednesday, May 28, 2008)

'Andy Griffith' whistler was 88

Earle H. Hagen, the Emmy Award-winning television composer who wrote the theme music for "The Andy Griffith Show," "The Dick Van Dyke Show," "I Spy" and other classic TV programs, has died. He was 88. Hagen, who composed the jazz standard "Harlem Nocturne" and was a former big-band trombonist for Tommy Dorsey, Benny Goodman and Ray Noble, died Monday night at his home in Rancho Mirage, CA, said his wife, Laura. He had been ill for several months. After spending seven years at 20th Century Fox as an arranger and orchestrator, Hagen moved into television in 1953 after the studio cut back on its music department. Over the next 33 years, he composed music for more than 3,000 TV-series episodes, pilots and TV movies — as well as composing the themes for "That Girl," "The Mod Squad," "Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C.," and "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer." Hagen also wrote a jazz arrangement of the traditional Irish tune "Londonderry Air," which served as the theme for Danny Thomas' "Make Room for Daddy" situation comedy. The Thomas show, which debuted in 1953, launched Hagen's longtime professional relationship with director-producer Sheldon Leonard. "There is no question in my mind that Earle Hagen is one of the most important composers in the history of television, if not the most important," said Jon Burlingame. When Hagen started his television career, Burlingame said, "there was very little original music being composed for television. He was one of the very few people who took the leap and saw the potential of music for television in terms of what could be accomplished dramatically and comedically." The happy-go-lucky theme for "The Andy Griffith Show" might be Hagen's most recognizable tune. It's certainly the most beloved. In his autobiography, "Memoirs of a Famous Composer Nobody Ever Heard Of," Hagen wrote that while sitting at home "wracking my brain for an idea for a theme for the Griffith show, it finally occurred to me that it should be something simple, something you could whistle. With that in mind, it took me about an hour to write the Andy Griffith theme." That night, he and several musicians recorded a demo of the theme for the opening of the show, with Hagen doing the whistling and his 11-year-old son Deane doing the finger-snapping. The next morning, Hagen took a copy of the demo to executive producer Leonard's home. As Hagen recalled: "He listened and said, 'Great! I'll do (the show's opening) at Franklin Canyon Lake with Andy and Ronny (Howard) walking along the bank with a couple of fishing poles over their shoulders." Hagen wrote music for as many as five weekly shows simultaneously, putting in "16-hour workdays, seven days a week, for 40 weeks a year," he told the online magazine Film Score Monthly in 2001. Hagen, who retired from television in 1986, taught the BMI workshop for film and TV composers for many years. Hagen's wife of 59 years, former big-band singer Elouise "Lou" Sidwell, died in 2002. In addition to his wife Laura, whom he married in 2005, Hagen is survived by his two sons, Deane and James; three stepchildren, Rebecca Roberts, Richard Roberts and Rachael Roberts; and four grandchildren.

HARTFIELD, Charleston Hartfield

Although it is difficult to accept that Charleston Hartfield was stolen from us abruptly October 1, 2017, we will honor him by telling his story. Charleston Hartfield was born feet first and kicking into the world May 6, 1983, in Bellflower, CA, to Sheryl Hartfield and Carl Hartfield Sr. At an early age, Charleston was always anxious to learn, eager to tackle new challenges and a great student in class. He gave his life to the Lord and was baptized several times by his grandmother, Wilma. As they say, it takes a village to raise strong kids with love and support. Charleston was raised by his grandmother, Wilma, and his aunt, Trisha, in his early years. Thereafter, his honorary parents, Jeannie and John Murray nurtured him from a young teenager into manhood. Charleston joined the U.S. Army when he turned 17-years old after serving in JROTC for four years. Charleston was joined in marriage to Veronica in March 2002 and their union produced two remarkable children, Ayzayah (15) and Savannah (9). He was a devoted husband and father that focused on ensuring that his family's needs were exceedingly met. Everything he was and wanted to be was to honor his family. Charleston's love, his mischievous and infectious sense of humor and his determination to succeed in every endeavor became a catalyst for his exemplary 17-year military career with the U.S. Army under the 82nd Airborne and the Nevada National Guard. His overwhelming desire to belong, lead him to also serve his community for 11 years with the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department. As noted in his now Best Selling memoirs, he treated everyone with integrity, compassion and respect whether the duty was patrol or an uncover assignment. He took his oath to protect the safety of Las Vegas seriously and would not allow anyone to compromise the community's peace of mind. He found no greater joy than to watch the exceptional athleticism of his son in youth football with the Henderson Cowboys. He facilitated the league by becoming an Assistant Director and Coach. He also became a Team Dad when Savannah danced her heart out with the B Sharp Dance Crew. He will be dearly missed by his officer colleagues at the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department, his fellow soldiers the U.S. Army National Guard 100th QM and every coach and football player of the Henderson Cowboys. He regularly inspired everyone he touched by challenging them to become bigger than themselves. Charleston mastered his video historian skills with his "Chucky Hart Productions" videos that chronicled Ayzayah's and Savannah's sports and dance participation. Charleston is survived by his wife, Veronica; son, Ayzayah; and his daughter, Savannah. He also leaves behind his mother, Sheryl; aunt, Trisha; his sisters, Mia, Denita and Yvronda (Necie); brother, Carl Jr.; and a host of nieces and nephews, cousins and other relatives that adored him alike. Service will be Friday, October 20, at Central Christian Church, 1001 New Beginnings Drive, Henderson. Graveside service following at Southern Nevada Veterans Memorial Cemetery, 1900 Veterans Memorial Drive, Boulder City.

Grace Marie Hawkins of Tequesta, FL died peacefully on the evening of January 1, 2014 with her soul mate, Sam Henry Hawkins, at her side. In the week leading up to her passing, she enjoyed the company of her entire family, having time to visit with and comfort each of her children and grandchildren. She felt truly blessed and at peace, and looked forward to finally getting to hold her infant son, Michael who had predeceased her over fifty years ago. Grace was born in Sarasota, FL on 24 May 1935. She and Sam were married in 1956 and had four children together. Grace was a designer, a wonderful cook and seamstress, a tireless volunteer, and a homemaker in the truest sense, but most of all, she was a beloved wife, mother and grandmother who took great pride in the tight-knit and loving family that she and Sam created together. She adored her family and showered them with love and affection, but also never shied from giving direction when needed! Grace was no less loving or proud of her extended family - daughters Jan, Kay and Rhonda, than she was of her biological children. She is survived by them, as well as her husband, Sam, children, Chris, Jamie and Jennifer, and grandchildren Jessica, Josh, Matt, Daniel and Sam. A vigil and visitation for Grace will be Sunday, January 12th at Aycock-Riverside Funeral Home, 1112 Military Trail, Jupiter. Anna Mae Hays, an Army nurse who served in a mud-caked jungle hospital in World War II, guided the Army Nurse Corps through the bloodiest years of the Vietnam War and became the first female general in American military history, died Jan. 7, 2018 at a retirement home in Washington. She was 97. The cause was complications from a heart attack, said a niece, Doris Kressly. The daughter of Salvation Army officers, Gen. Hays had dreamed of becoming a nurse since she was a young girl, wrapping bandages around the legs of a kitchen table where her parents frequently invited the infirm to dinner. She went on, in Vietnam, to oversee a 4,500-person nursing corps whose robust use of antibiotics, whole-blood transfusions and speedy helicopter evacuations was unforeseen when she began assisting doctors at a dirt-floored hospital in Ledo, India, in January 1943. Working in a malaria-infested stretch of the China-Burma-India Theater, she treated gangrenous construction workers who were building a new roadway that supplied the Chinese military in its war against Japan, as well as lice-infested members of the special-operations Army unit known as Merrill's Marauders. Most of her staff was sick with malaria, dysentery, or dengue fever, she later said in an Army oral history, and at one time she found herself hospitalized and spotted a cobra under her bed. She calmly asked a guard to shoot it, later explaining, "When one lives in the jungle, one can expect that sort of thing." Gen. Hays treated some of the earliest casualties of the Korean War, helping establish the first military hospital in Inchon, and as chief of the Army Nurse Corps from 1967 until her retirement four years later, she helped bolster its ranks during the conflict in Vietnam. As part of an effort to expand scholarship opportunities and educational requirements for Army nurses, Gen. Hays "persuaded the Army that nursing was important enough to spend money on — a hard sell at that time," said Sanders Marble, senior historian in the Army's Office of Medical History. She also helped push through Army policy changes that paved the way for women in the military, including the 1970 establishment of maternity leave for female officers. Through her efforts, married officers were no longer automatically discharged from the ranks for becoming pregnant, and a provision was removed that limited mothers' ability to join the Army Nurse Corps Reserve. Hays was born Anna Mae Violet McCabe on Feb. 16, 1920, in Buffalo. She enrolled in the Allentown General Hospital School of Nursing in 1939, and graduated in 1941. She joined the Army Nurse Corps following the attack on Pearl Harbor. She met William A. Hays while they were both working at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. They were married from 1956 until his death in 1962. She never remarried. Hays is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Tim was born in Boston, MA on January 18, 1945 to the late Timothy J. Hennigan and Margaret (McCabe) Hennigan of Sun City FL. Upon graduating from Saint John's Preparatory School of Worcester, Tim received an Appointment to the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, MD. However, eager for action, he joined the Navy for active service in 1964 and spent much time away at sea on Destroyer Class Ships, along with visits back to his young family at Naval Station Newport, RI. In 1968 Tim resigned from active service and remained on with the Navy Reserves for several years. In 1969 he joined his father's fledgling water treatment and consulting engineering business. Tim's brilliant mind for business, competitive nature, and gift of gab proved just what the young business needed. He took over the reigns as President in 1972 and hit the road with great courage, wisdom, and integrity, convincing his Power Generation Industry clients that he was, indeed, the best thing since sliced bread. He also convinced his family that "as long as people want lights on at night we will have business to perform". With that, his family joined the team and over the course of 48 years forged Hennigan Engineering Co. Inc. into the premier, multi-disciplined, national service provider it is today. His entrepreneurial spirit never quit, as he founded the successful sister companies Heat Exchanger Products (HEPCO) and HydroDynamics. All three companies continue to flourish in the control of family members and devoted employees. Tim loved the ocean and spent quality time boating and fishing, until he discovered Harley-Davidson, which put him on two wheels, and led to many biking adventures with family and friends. His true love was his wife and family, which he cherished more than life and spoiled with grand family vacations in exotic locations. He created Heaven on Earth for himself, his family, and friends and will be deeply missed by those he touched. A private ceremony was held in Section 3, Site 1363 at the Sarasota National Cemetery on his 72nd Birthday, January 18, 2016. A celebration of life, in his name, will take place in Massachusetts in May. Contributions in his memory may be made to Dana Faber Community Cancer Care of Weymouth.

(Abstracted from <https://www.legacy.com/obituaries/heraldtribune/obituary.aspx?n=geraldine-mcdonough-hilmes&pid=162438379&fhid=8480>)

Geraldine McDonough Hilmes, age 76, was taken by our Lord on Wednesday January 16, 2013 in Sarasota, FL. Geri, a devout Catholic, was born May 25, 1936 in Albany, NY to Jim and Helen McDonough. The oldest of three, Geri graduated high school in Albany and studied at Albany State Teachers College. Geri met Jerry Hilmes at West Point, NY in 1956. The couple married in Albany in 1959 before moving to Hanau, Germany for Jerry's first assignment as an Army officer. The Berlin Wall went up during this time, and Geri became very familiar with evacuation drills. Unfazed by the realities of overseas Army life during the Cold War, Geri came to fall in love with the Army during this tour, becoming active with numerous spouse support groups. Bruce was born in 1960, followed by Gary in 1961. After transferring back to the United States and Iowa State University in 1962, Doug arrived in 1963. Doug was diagnosed with a Wilms Tumor in 1967 - 99% fatal in those days. Geri took Doug, alone, to Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington DC, in an area literally burning down due to the fierce racial riots marking that period of our history. She lived there with Doug for almost two months, fighting and winning the battle to save his young life. Geri had cemented her role as a resilient Army wife. Vibrant and vivacious, a devoted wife, mother and steadfast friend, Geri lived the rest of her adult life alongside her husband, supporting him and their four sons (with Andy arriving in 1972) while developing lifelong friendships. She orchestrated 27 moves around the world during their 33 year Army journey, keeping morale up and the family together as her sons left yet another school and sports team for new ones. Geri made them "bloom where they were planted," ensuring they would be ready for the challenges of life. She handled the rigors and uncertainty of raising a young family by herself, with grace and a genuine focus on selfless service, while Jerry served two 1-year combat tours in Vietnam and participated in countless month-long training exercises around the world. While stationed at West Point, NY, Geri was active in the faculty wives club and the American Red Cross. She was a Cub Scout den leader and volunteer service provider to a special geriatrics ward at the VA center near Ft Leavenworth, KS. She served many roles in Germany as an Army commander's wife. As the "first lady" of the command, Geri helped thousands of Soldiers and their family members within our military communities, focusing on quality of life issues. She furthered German-American relations, forming a German-American youth soccer team. Geri was awarded the Helping Hand Award there, for her service to the community. While in the Washington DC area, she served as a member of the Arlington Ladies, representing the Chief of Staff of the Army at hundreds of Army funerals over 10 years, touching the hearts of many survivors. During Operation Desert Storm, Geri worked tirelessly at the Army Family Liaison Office (FLO), helping families of soldiers in Iraq, especially Reservists, whose families faced more challenges. She could relate to those challenges, as her eldest son, Bruce, was leading a tank company during the operation. Geri's efforts resulted in numerous leader spouses joining the FLO effort, and she was recognized with the Army Public Service Award. Geri's lifetime was characterized by her generous gift of time, advice, love and humor to others. She was as beautiful on the inside as she was pretty on the outside. Geri loved to host parties and entertain family and friends, which she did - ranging from Members of Congress to privates with nowhere to go for Christmas - over the 33 years in the Army. She also relished her membership in and accumulated friendships from the Engineers Wives Club, Signal Officers Wives Club and DC Women's Club. She received awards from the Chief of Staff of the Army and others for her unselfish support and devotion to duty to the people in or relevant to various commands and communities. But the best "awards" were from other military spouses and Soldiers who were so grateful and respectful of the assistance she provided them. Geri's proudest achievement was serving as the lifelong guide for her four sons, keeping them in check and on azimuth to a life of success and personal fulfillment, with all four achieving graduate degrees. Three of them would go on to serve careers as Armor officers in the Army, with Bruce and Gary retiring from active duty as Lieutenant Colonels with a combined 46 years of service. The youngest, Andy, is currently a Lieutenant Colonel, commanding a cavalry squadron in the 3rd Infantry Division. Doug is a successful businessman and former telecommunications executive. Geri is survived by Jerry, husband of 53 years; Bruce and family, Di, Chris and Megan; Gary and family, Sabine, Ryan and Angeliq; Doug and family, Jean, Alex and Ashley; and Andy and family, Nikki, Jocelyn, Andrew Jr. and Madison. She leaves a brother Jim and a sister Joan Spear, both of Albany NY. She also leaves numerous nieces and nephews in the East, Midwest and South. She is remembered and deeply loved by all her family and friends for her caring giving nature. Toale Brothers Funeral Home - 40 North Orange Avenue, Sarasota is entrusted with the arrangements. The Funeral Mass will be held Monday at St. Martha's Catholic Church. The interment will be Monday in Section 7, Site 476 at Sarasota National Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, the family is requesting donations be made to Accelerate Brain Cancer Cure at www.abc2.org or Autism Speaks at www.autismspeaks.org.

Robert A. "Bob" Hoover, a World War II fighter pilot who became an aviation legend for his skills as a test pilot and for his appearances in air shows, has died at age 94. Hoover died early Tuesday, said Bill Fanning, a close family friend for many years and fellow pilot. "He was every pilot's icon," Fanning said, recalling his friend as one of the premier test pilots of the 1950s and '60s. "Bob tested everything. He flew them all." Hoover was known for being the chase pilot for Chuck Yeager, who set an aviation record by breaking the sound barrier in 1947. Hoover went on to set his own transcontinental and "time to climb" speed records. The famous General Jimmy Doolittle who was a pioneering pilot himself, called Hoover the "greatest stick-and-rudder man who ever lived." Hoover's plane was shot down during World War II and he spent 16 months in a German POW camp. He escaped the camp by stealing a German plane and flying it to the Netherlands. Hoover became the backup pilot for his friend Chuck Yeager and flew chase for Yeager during his famous Mach 1 flight. He flew flight tests for the F-86 Sabre and the F-100 Super Sabre. Hoover later became a legend flying at air shows across the country. He retired from performing at air shows in 1999 at the age of 77. The Smithsonian Air and Space Museum tweeted, "We mourn the passing of our friend Robert A. "Bob" Hoover, "The Greatest Stick and Rudder Man Who Ever Lived." -

HORN, Gilbert Horn Sr.

(Abstracted from information received from June Spear)
GREAT FALLS, Mont. — Gilbert Horn Sr., a Native American code talker who returned from World War II to spend decades serving the Fort Belknap Assiniboine Tribe as a judge and council member, has died of natural causes. He was 92. Horn died

Sunday at Northern Montana Care Center in Havre, Kirkwood Funeral Home said. His memorial service was scheduled Wednesday. Horn was born on the Fort Belknap Indian Reservation in 1923. He joined the U.S. National Guard at age 15 as a way to escape the poverty of the reservation. He enlisted in the Army at 17 after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. Horn was initially trained as a sharpshooter and later received some training in communications and encryption and joined other Indians who used their native languages to send coded messages during World War II. The work of the code talkers remained classified until 1968. Horn volunteered for service as a member of Merrill's Marauders, a special operations unit of 2,750 men whose mission was to cut Japanese communications and supply lines in the Burmese jungle. "It was a fighting unit, ready for action any time," Horn said during an interview for a story published in January 2014. "I wanted to go see the war. I didn't want to be in Montana all my life. I wanted to see what's across that big waters called the oceans." The unit made an 800-mile trek over the Himalaya Mountains into the jungle with only the weapons and supplies they could carry on the 720 mules and horses they brought with them. The Marauders fought through monsoon season. Troops suffered from malaria, dysentery and typhus. Horn was wounded four times. "There was no support. We didn't have any artillery. They just kept on knocking us down, whittling us down," he said in 2014. "It is hard to believe what we had to go through." Horn — one of 1,200 soldiers who survived the Marauders' campaign — was awarded a Purple Heart. Each soldier also received a Bronze Star. Despite his military heroics, when Horn returned to the reservation in June 1945, he said he was "treated like dirt." Veterans were supposed to be given preferential treatment when applying for certain jobs and qualify for low-interest federal housing loans, but he said that almost never happened. He worked on his grandparents' farm and received schooling in business management, psychology and legal work. Horn served on the Assiniboine Treaty Committee for 68 years. He was a member of the Fort Belknap Community Council for 19 years and was a tribal judge for eight years, during which time he wrote the first regulations for the tribe's juvenile court. He was a member of the health board that lobbied for a new clinic and also helped get the Head Start program established on the reservation. One of its buildings was named after Horn, whose Indian name is "Shunk Ta Oba Kni," or "Returns With Prisoner Horse." In 2013, he received an honorary doctorate in humanitarian services from Montana State University-Northern. In May 2014, he was named the chief of the Fort Belknap Assiniboine Tribe, the first tribal chief in more than 125 years. Horn is survived by 10 of his 11 children, 37 grandchildren, 71 great-grandchildren and 18 great-great-grandchildren.

Kissimmee Police Sgt. Richard "Sam" Howard, age 36, was killed helping a fellow officer in the community he served for 10 years. He died Saturday, succumbing to injuries he suffered in a double shooting the night before that's rocked the law enforcement community. Fellow officer Matthew Baxter initiated a routine check into three suspicious people near the intersection of Cypress and Palmway streets Friday. Howard was in the area and went to back up Baxter when he heard his call, a Kissimmee Police spokeswoman said. At some point during the exchange, 45-year-old Everett Glenn Miller pulled out a handgun and shot the two officers. Baxter died shortly after the shooting, according to police. Howard clung to life for until the next day. Howard's "auntie" Darlene Richardson said his family came in to see him before taking him off life support Saturday. It was his mother's birthday. "He always wanted to be a cop, ever since he was a kid, he always wanted to arrest the bad people," Richardson said. "He didn't want to see nobody hurting." Howard was married to an elementary school teacher and had a teenage daughter, his cousin Michael Howard said. The sergeant had just earned a promotion last month, according to the Kissimmee Police Department.

HUNT, Johnnie B. Hunt

(Abstracted from a New York Times article of December 8, 2006)

Johnnie B. Hunt, who built a nationwide freight-hauling empire after calculating that driving a single transport truck was rather less profitable than owning and managing thousands of them, died Thursday. He was 79. His company announced his death. A family spokesman said Mr. Hunt had been in critical condition at a hospital since Saturday, when he slipped on ice at his home in Goshen, AR, and fell, striking his head. The son of a sharecropper, Mr. Hunt had little formal education, having dropped out of school in the sixth grade to help support his family. But he had a keen entrepreneurial sense. In 1961, after nine years behind the wheel of his own truck, he founded the cargo hauling enterprise that grew to become J. B. Hunt Transport Services. Today, it is the nation's largest publicly traded trucking company. The fleet of five trucks and seven trailers he purchased to start the company has grown to 11,000 and 47,000, respectively, all of them electronically tracked from the company's sprawling headquarters in Lowell, near Fayetteville, in northwest Arkansas. In 1989, in partnership with Burlington Northern Santa Fe Railway, the company created an intermodal division in which freight containers could be hauled interchangeably by truck or rail. The venture proved enormously profitable -- "the envy of the industry," Thom S. Albrecht, a transportation analyst for Stephens Inc., said Thursday. In the quarter that ended Sept. 30, J. B. Hunt reported earnings of $58 million on revenues of $858 million. It employs more than 16,000 people. "The uniqueness of his vision was to standardize the company's fleet, its services and even its drivers' uniforms," Mr. Albrecht said of Mr. Hunt. "He positioned his company beautifully to take advantage of trucking deregulation in the 1980s." Mr. Hunt retired as chairman in 1995 and as "senior chairman" in 2004. He cut a colorful figure in Arkansas. Unfailingly polite, he stood more than six feet tall and almost always wore a Stetson hat and cowboy boots. Gold dollar signs secured his French cuffs, and from a gold money clip he dispensed $100 bills to the needy, explaining that his memories of childhood as a poor sharecropper's son were still vivid. Johnnie Bryan Hunt was born on Feb. 28, 1927, in rural Heber Springs, in north-central Arkansas. He was not yet a teenager when he began gathering up wood shavings from his uncle's sawmill, where he worked, and selling them to chicken farmers for use in their coops. In 1952, he married the former Johnelle DeBusk, who survives him, as do a son, Bryan, and a daughter, Jane. His wife and son are directors of the company. Though officially retired, Mr. Hunt took up real estate development in recent years, building a million-square-foot office and retail complex near his home, among other ventures. All have been profitable.

HUNTER, Jonathon M. Hunter

(Abstracted from http://www.dailyjournal.net/2017/08/04/columbus\_man\_serving\_in\_army\_killed\_in\_afghanistan/)

A 2011 Columbus East High School graduate who found a way of life he loved in the U.S. Army was one of two American soldiers killed during a suicide bombing attack on a NATO convoy in southern Afghanistan. The death of U.S. Army Sgt. Jonathon M. Hunter, age 23, during Wednesday's bombing attack was confirmed by his father, Mark Hunter of Columbus, IN and his mother, Kimberly Thompson of Nashville, IN. The attack that claimed the life of the former Columbus East student and football player occurred near the city of Kandahar, according to a Pentagon source. The Taliban took responsibility for the attack. Hunter was part of an international force referred to as the Train, Advise and Assist Command south, a reference to their location in the country. Jonathon Hunter served with the 1st Brigade Combat Team, 82nd Airborne Division stationed at Fort Bragg, NC. He was deployed to Afghanistan on July 1 of this year — his first deployment. It came about nine months after he married Whitney Michelle (Stewart) Hunter, of Fayetteville, NC, on Oct. 15, 2016. Jonathon Hunter's role in Afghanistan was to provide security, his mother said. Kimberly Thompson said the news of her son's death has left her feeling numb. "I'm very, very proud of who he has become and what he did for our country," she said. "It's a double-edged sword. I'm incredibly proud he served our country; it's what he was called to do." Members of the Indiana National Guard informed the soldier's parents Wednesday night. "I was sitting out on the deck and I heard a knock. I saw the blue berets. I opened the door, and I was asked if I was the mother of Sgt. Jonathon Hunter. I said, 'Yes, and I know why you are here,'" Kimberly Thompson said. His mother and other family members are working with the U.S. military on plans to have Hunter's body flown from Dover (Delaware) Air Force Base to Columbus Municipal Airport, in anticipation of holding services in the Columbus area. Joining the military wasn't the first option for Jonathon Hunter after high school. He attended Indiana State University in Terre Haute for three semesters. There, he accepted an Air Force ROTC scholarship because he didn't want to burden his family with paying for college, his father said. At various times Jonathon Hunter pursued music and criminal justice degrees. For a while, he had dreams of becoming a recording producer, Mark Hunter said. When he gave up on that career pursuit, however, Jonathon returned to Columbus, his dad said. And on April 8, 2014, Jonathon put off plans to immediately finish college and gave his full commitment to the U.S. Army, his mother said. "Jonathon always did well with a strong discipline. He recognized the military could do that for him and keep him focused," his mother said. "He knew he needed a little more focus and discipline in his life." Mark Hunter said his family has had a tradition of military service since the Civil War, and that his son join the Army with plans to complete college after serving his country. Jonathon Hunter found success serving in the Army. He earned his Expert Infantryman Badge late last year, and more recently had been promoted to sergeant, Kimberly Thompson said. She said he was proud to serve as a mentor to the men under his command, but was humble about what he was doing. "I would say, 'What are you doing?' He would say, 'I'm just doing my job, protecting our country, protecting our freedom,'" his mother said. Mark Hunter last saw his son when he came back home on leave in late June, he said. Although they saw each other daily, Jonathon Hunter spent much of his time back in Columbus visiting with several old friends, he said. The last time Kimberly Thompson talked with her son was July 18, she said. "He just said, 'I'm doing good, Mom, I'm just on a security detail,'" the mother said. When Mark Hunter last talked with his son Saturday, his son told him he was interested in getting trained to become an Army Ranger. Although Jonathon Hunter assured his father all was quiet prior to another security detail, he said "he was ready to do some fighting," Mark Hunter said. The father was scheduled to leave early this morning to drive to Dover Air Force Base, which houses Mortuary Affairs Operations. Services and memorials are expected to be later scheduled according to the wishes of Kimberly Thompson, he said. While people will remember Jonathon Hunter's service and sacrifice, he also was known or being a genuine person with a kind, warm soul, and dedicated to his family, his mother said. "He had a contagious, infectious smile and laugh," Kimberly Thompson said. She added that he had a soft heart for people with special needs, too. "He saw them as real people. He never saw color or social economic differences," Kimberly Thompson said. Surviving family: his wife, Whitney Michelle Hunter; father, Mark Hunter; mother, Kimberly Thompson; stepfather, Brian Thompson; brother, Marcus Hunter; sisters Lindsey England, Kelsey Thompson; brother-in-law, Andy England; niece, Bailey England and nephew, Jordan Burton.
