KIMBLE, Emerson W. Kimble

(Related to Elmer in his Jordan Line)

Emerson W. Kimble, a radio broadcaster for more than three decades and a retired executive at WSPD Radio, died of lung cancer yesterday in the Hospice of Northwest Ohio, Perrysburg Township. He was 77. He'd had chronic obstructive lung disease for several years and was diagnosed with cancer in March, his granddaughter, Jennifer Faulkner, said. Mr. Kimble of West Toledo retired as national sales manager of WSPD Radio in the mid-1970s, when the station changed ownership. "He had an excellent voice," said veteran Toledo broadcaster Frank Gilhooley, who worked at the former WTOL Radio. "He was a knowledgeable guy and very easy-going." Mr. Kimble was hired in 1948 as an announcer. But most of his years were spent in management. He had been station manager and program director. "He was well known in this community for many years. As I was growing up, he still did radio spots," his granddaughter, 28, said. "We have tapes of them. I can remember him practicing. "People could tell just by listening to his voice what he did for a living. He had one of those radio voices. He was very proud of his career." He took part in many Masonic activities. He was a member of the Zenobia Shrine, the Harbor Light Lodge, F&AM, and the Scottish Rite, Toledo. He was a former president of the High Twelve Club. He had been a board member of the Advertising Club of Toledo and the Toledo Sales and Marketing Club and was a former president of the Exchange Club of Toledo. Mr. Kimble's career began in his hometown, Ashtabula, O., after a successful audition for a local radio station. He was a graduate of Ashtabula Harbor High School and attended Miami University. He was in the Army Air Corps during World War II and was stationed at Bowman Air Base in Louisville, where he was announcer for a radio show. Afterward, he worked for radio stations in Lima, O., Cleveland, and Cincinnati, where he announced for such stars as Bob Hope and the Dorsey Brothers. But he chose a career in Toledo over a chance with a national network - a decision he did not regret, his granddaughter said. "He was where he wanted to be," she said. Mr. Kimble's wife, Marie, died in 1995. Surviving are his daughter, Diane Faulkner; son, Richard, and four grandchildren. The body will be in the Foth-Dorfmeier Mortuary after 1 p.m. Wednesday, with Masonic services at 7:30 p.m. Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Thursday in Epworth United Methodist Church. The family requests tributes to the Hospice of Northwest Ohio, Epworth United Methodist Church, or a charity of the donor's choice.
