(Abstracted from information from Beggs Funeral Home)

Our mother Sarah Frances Odom passed away on September 21, 2013. She was a Georgia girl who called Florida her home. Frances was a graduate of Tifton County High School in Georgia. Her fondest childhood memories were of summers spent with her family in Shellman's Bluff, Georgia. She was a Florida State fan, but loved her Georgia Bulldawgs! While working as a soda clerk in Havana, Florida she met the love of her life James Odom Jr. They were married on January 20, 1946 and were married until his passing. They lived in happiness and cared for one another throughout their lives and never forgot to say "I Love You". After retirement from Precision Printing Company, Frances and James spent many joyous days at the campgrounds where they fished and enjoyed the company of others. Her favorite places were Vogel State Park, Flaming Arrow, Cotton Hill, White Oak Creek and Hardridge Creek. Frances always found happiness in the little things around her. She was a wonderful cook and an amazing story teller. Family and friends often reveled in her stories about trips to see her husband after the war, of little camping stories about her grandchildren and trips to the beach with her friend Jenny. She had a special place in her heart for Kerri Brown and her grandson's Colton and Charles Tucker Smith, who brought smiles to her life with every visit. Our mother's courage was often a surprise to many. She battled several illnesses and with time would overcome the challenges of each, always with the love and support of her family and canine buddies. She dearly loved all of her puppies as they were her constant companions through camping trips, curvy mountain roads where she would say "it's hug a puppy time" and while she was resting at home. Visiting puppies always got a treat and tummy rub. The family extends a special thank you to her nurses and the doctors who cared for her throughout her illnesses. Frances was preceded in death by her sisters Clara Tomlinson, Carolyn Vickers, Mother Annie L. Oliver and her loving husband of 65 years James L. Odom Jr. She is survived by her children James L. Odom III (Sandi), Linda Hunt (Hal), Joy Beard, Barbara Schmidt (George) and her youngest son Patrick L. Odom; grandchildren - Keith Odom (Michelle), Heath Hunt (Shanna), Robyn Buschar (Tim) Jay Beard, Lauren Blackburn (Sawyer); great-grandchildren - Tyler Odom, Brooke Buschar, Brayden, Laney-Grace and Yardley Blackburn. ORLANDO, Nina McLean Orlando

(Abstracted from the 6 July 2018 Waycross, GA Journal Herald Newspaper)

Nina McLean Orlando, age 83, died Wednesday (July 4, 2018) in her home in Montgomery, AL. She was born on Feb. 12, 1935 in Waycross, lived in many places across the country during her time as a military wife, and lived in Montgomery since 1979. Her parents, James Edgar McLean and Susan Hopkins McLean, were active, longtime members of the Waycross community, particularly within First United Methodist Church. The church was a second home for Nina in her youth, and a treasured part of her heritage. Music was also at the center of her life. Her passion was piano performance, and her favorite composer was Brahms. She began studying the piano at age 4 and continued as a student, performer and, at times, teacher for most of her life. She had many happy childhood memories of afternoon piano instruction with Miss Isabella, and the fun of roller skating to and from her lessons. Waycross and her family were the source of lifetime relationships and memories for her. Her cousins, Barbara Hopkins and Georgianne Lott, were her best friends beginning in childhood and extending until the end of their days. The gathering of family for every occasion at either her grandparents' house or her parents' home on Carswell Avenue were joyful hours that were the models for the many wonderful occasions she created for others in her adult life. Summers were spent in Fernandina Beach, FL, at the Hopkins cottage, a lifetime "happy place" for her, crossing from her own childhood, into her time as a young mother and even into her time with her grandchildren. Deep sea fishing, long walks to the jetty and swimming out past the breakers created a base of sustaining family memories for generations. She was married to Charles A. Butler from 1954 until 1979, criss-crossing the country as the wife of a Navy pilot. From Virginia Beach to Pebble Beach, and from Newport, RI, to Key West, FL, she created a lovely home for her husband and three girls in more than 20 locations, turning that transient lifestyle into a rich adventure for all of them. As a Navy wife, she served her country with grace and strength, guiding and supporting other Navy families through long separations, and fostering community and celebration in every duty station. A voracious reader with a vocabulary that made her an unbeatable Scrabble player, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, May Sarton and William F. Buckley Jr. were among her favorite authors. Her formidable memory and razor sharp mind were a source of pleasure and envy until her last hour. She was a lover of West Highland White Terriers, and a tennis player with a fierce backhand. She honed her gardening skills in many different climates, and was renowned for her cooking and entertaining, making her home a center of celebration for her family and friends over many decades. She was delighted to return to her beloved Montgomery, AL, which she fell in love with as a college student at Huntingdon. She married Donald P. Orlando in 1990 and spent many years in Old Cloverdale, eventually settling on Malone Drive, in a house they lovingly restored. Nina and Donald were devoted members of the Church of the Ascension, taking much strength from their Episcopal faith. She was preceded in death by her parents, her sisters, Susan Converse Zachry and Ann Converse, and her brother, James E. McLean, Jr. Surviving are her husband of 28 years, Donald P. Orlando, her three daughters, Nancy Butler, Ann Butler (Jerry Cox) and Catherine Butler, and her grandchildren, Julia Butler-Mayes and Colin Butler-Mayes. A graveside service will be Saturday at Oakland Cemetery in Waycross. In lieu of flowers, the family requests memorial contributions to the local Humane Society. A celebration of life will be held in Montgomery at a later date. Miles-Odum Funeral Home is in charge of the arrangements.
