VANN, Mrs. John W. Vann

(Abstracted from the Madison New Enterprise Newspaper, Madison, Florida, April 11, 1913)

Quietly sleeping in Oak Ridge Cemetery beneath a profusion of flowers lies all that is mortal of Mrs. John W. Vann. Peaceful as her life had been, so was her departure from it. In a few hours she passed from a life of kindness and service to her loved ones and faithfulness to her Master into that upper and better kingdom prepared for those who rightly serve their Lord. Mrs. Vann was born in Abbeville, SC January 9th, 1849, and came to Madison with her parents in 1865. It was here then that she passed the greater part of her life. On Nov. 4th, 1868 she was married to John W. Vann, also of Madison County, and for nearly forty-five years they had lived together through joys and through sorrows, until on Monday, April 7th, the Lord, whom she had loved and served, called her away from earth to join the hosts of the redeemed in Heaven. Without a murmur she went, and although her transition has caused sadness to her loved ones here, they have the assurance that with her all is well, and in her godly life an inspiration to guide them into the heavenly kingdom. Mrs. Vann was a faithful member of the Methodist Church of this city, and only the day before her calling away she had according to her custom attended both services of the sanctuary. Of a quiet and gentle disposition, she had endeared herself to her numbers of friends and it was with sincere sorrow that all who knew her learned of her being called from them. She leaves behind her, her husband, John W. Vann; five sons, R. F. Vann, J. T. Vann, A. W. Vann, T. C. Vann, and S. P. Vann; two daughters, Mrs. M. N. Drew and Miss Mae Vann; two brothers, Judge Jas. P. Martin and W. C. Martin; two sisters, Mrs. A. J. Paul and Mrs. M. S. Morris, several grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends.

Editor Elmer's Notes: We find Georgia G. Martin Vann (name not given in obituary), born 9 Jan 1849, died 7 Apr 1913 and is interred in Oak Ridge Cemetery.

Eustace Floyd Vinzant, 38, superintendent of one of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company farms, was shot and killed early Tuesday morning by Carlton Kelly in the back yard of the Kelly home-store just south of town on the paved Sirmans Road. According to Sheriff Moore, events leading up to the slaying was as follows: Vinzant had eaten dinner with Kelly Monday and then went bird hunting. He came back after dark and he and others were in the kitchen and Kelly was in the front of the building in the store part. Vinzant was said to have hit Mrs. Carlton Kelly, which, however, he denied, and after Kelly questioned him about it, Vinzant took his son and drove to his own home, generally known as the Harper, or Bishop Tooke house, about a half mile or so away. Kelly followed Vinzant and in the yard of the Vinzant home beat Vinzant severely over the head. It was not clear just what instrument was used in the beating. Kelly then went back to his own home. Vinzant then got a 16-gauge automatic shotgun and went back to Kelly's home. Failing to get in at the front, he went around to the back, whereupon Kelly fired seven shots into him from a German-made 32 automatic pistol. Vinzant was struck in the head, body and legs and died immediately. Kelly was placed in jail and a warrant charging murder sworn out against him.
